

Midlander

nineteen fifty-four

Executive Officer Marion Collins

Colonel John T. Hayes

Adjutant Thaddeus C. Fox

NATHAN B. FORREST CLUB

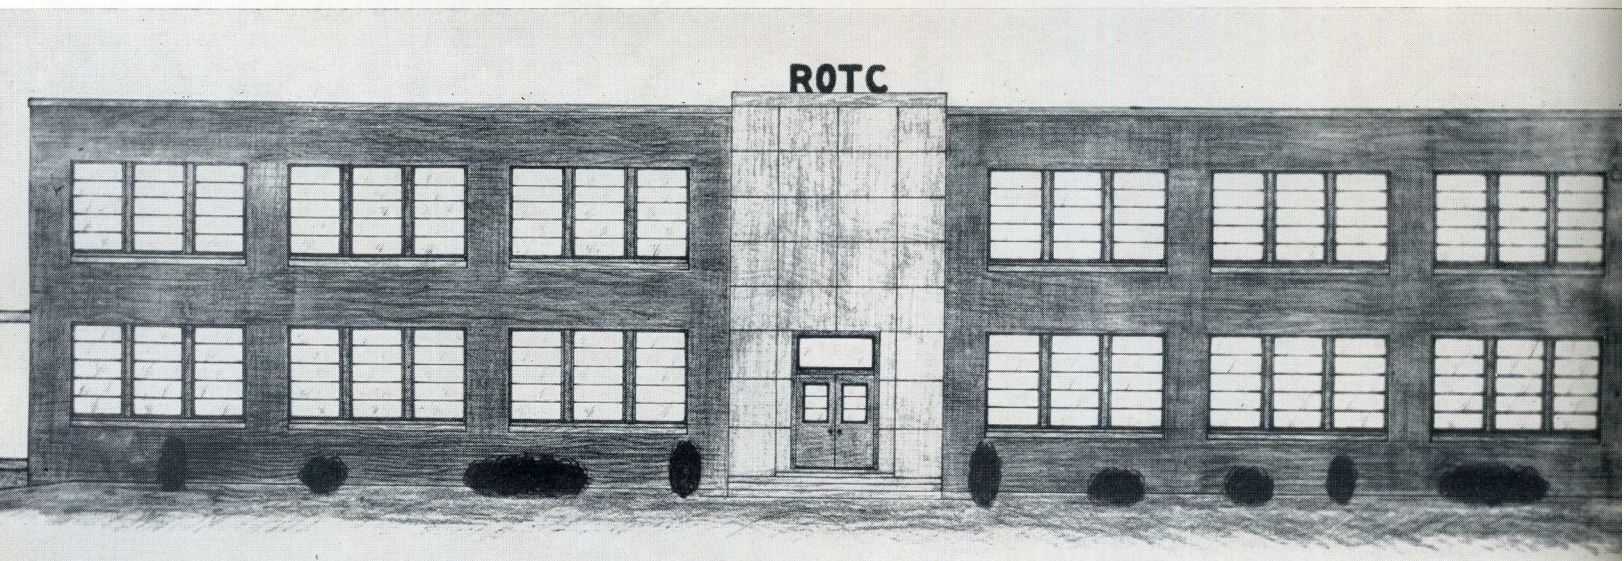

The Nathan Bedford Forrest Club is an honorary club for the outstanding members of the junior class in ROTC. It was organized this year under the direction of Captain Crawford Keith, the faculty advisor, and its founders predict a great future for the organization. The club's objective is to promote a better understanding of ROTC.

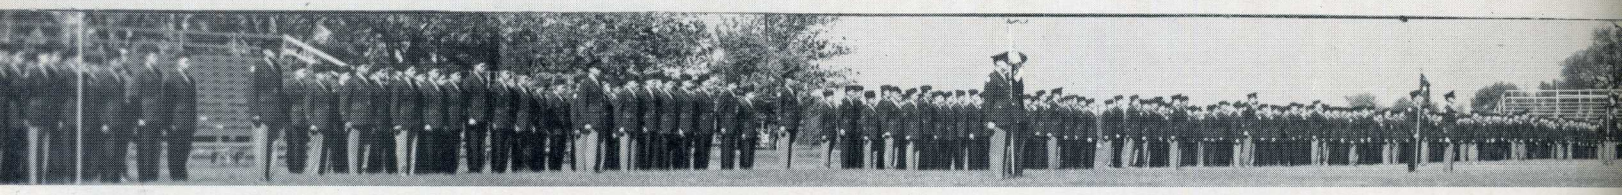

The club is named in honor of that great Confederate General of the same name. General Forrest was the only soldier in the Civil War to rise from the rank of private to that of a Major-General. The by-word of the general, "get thar fustest with the mostest," has become the motto of this club.

Top Row, left to right: David Singer, Malcolm Rives, James Hightower, Charles Monks, Hutton Brandon, James Tomlin, Tom Hogshead, Robert Farris. Second row: Sam Smith, Ben Earthman, David Cullum, William Kee, Johnny Collier, James Ridley, James Whisnant.

ROTC BUILDING

The battalion stands inspection with the new ROTC building, which will be completed in August 1954, looming large in the plans for next year. The armory faces the parade ground on the east side of the campus.

Classroom work and mockups put the "science" in military science and provide tactical problems soon to be worked out in field maneuvers.

